Importing feedback from paper or PDFs was a common task in older AutoCAD versions. It was generally necessary to perform the following steps: Place the paper or PDF on the drawing window. Select a part of the paper or PDF to import. Press ESC to exit the Import From Object tool. Press the F2 keyboard shortcut to open the drawing window. In the drawing window, navigate to the appropriate drawing object. Press the ADD keyboard shortcut to open the drawing drop-down menu. Navigate to the appropriate drawing object. Press the IMPORT button. In the imported drawing window, make any changes. Save the drawing by choosing Save from the File menu. The Import From Object tool has been improved to make the process faster, and the tool now works on files in the PDF, Word, PowerPoint and Excel formats. In addition to providing common support for PDF, MP3 and JPEG, AutoCAD can also import sound annotations and speech recognition keywords from a formatted text file. The speech recognition keywords include abbreviation, date, phone, address, email, name, amount, price, name, date, time and color, as well as more than 350 acronyms, date-related terms, phone numbers, email addresses and names. AutoCAD also supports recognition of text strings in Unicode and International Phonetic Alphabet formats. Tables and Line Colors: The Line Style dialog box has been redesigned and upgraded. The Line Styles feature makes it easy to create line styles from existing objects and to apply line styles to polylines, multilines and curves. When a new drawing is created, the line style buttons are displayed on the line style panel (Select Object Type panel). However, those buttons are hidden on the Line Styles panel when a drawing is opened in design mode. You can now assign a line color to a particular line style. Assigning a line color to a line style is a great way to distinguish different line styles, like solid and dashed lines, or different colors of lines for a given line style. After you assign a line color to a line style, you can control the way that line colors are applied to line styles. You can: Assign line colors to all or part of the line style, Apply a line color to the entire line style, or Assign line colors to the entire line
