The store will have buttons "order" and "buy" Orders are managed on the website. The order can not only be created, but also edited, printed. Orders are stored in the user's personal account. An order can be understood not only as an order for goods, but as an order for a service. The site is not ready yet. Although there is a prototype of it, there is a feedback on the engine in the form of one sentence. I think there will be more changes and improvements in the future. P.S. Now the store is under development, and works with low attendance. But, I am sure that the interest of visitors to the site will grow and expand. - General assembly of the site (working with the main template, creating and configuring visual modules) My name is Dmitry, I am a webmaster, I have been developing websites since 2010.
