So, I tried with the following sed command: $ sed -i's/ +/ /g' file.ext But it gives this error: sed: -e expression #1, char 11: unterminated `s' command I tried also with this command: $ sed -i's^\ +/ /g' file.ext And it also gives the same error. How can I solve this? A: Your \ + character is not escaped, but it is part of the regular expression, so it needs to be backslash escaped (but not at the beginning or end of the line). Your code: $ sed -i's^\ +/ /g' file.ext The correct code: $ sed -i's^\ +/ /g' file.ext Q: Different results for the expression "1 / (1 + sqrt((a + b)(c - a))) I want to calculate the average of two numbers and the average of their squares. I want to use the formula for the average in one expression and for the average of squares in another expression. Both expressions work correctly with Mathematica 10.1 on a Mac. expr1 = 1 / (1 + Sqrt[(a + b)(c - a)]); expr2 = 1/(1 + Sqrt[(a^2 + b^2) (c - a)]); However, if the first expression is changed to the following, the result is negative (although the sums, a and b, are positive): expr1 = 1 / (1 + Sqrt[(a + b)(c - a)^(1/2 570a42141b
