The municipalization of waterworks services in South Australia: a policy option THE MUNICIPALIZATION OF WATERWORKS SERVICES IN SOUTH AUSTRALIA: A POLICY OPTION by Charles G. Morrison A Dissertation Presented to the FACULTY OF THE USC GRADUATE SCHOOL UNIVERSITY OF SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA In Partial Fulfillment of the Requirements for the Degree DOCTOR OF PHILOSOPHY (POLITICAL SCIENCE) May 2013 Copyright 2013 Charles G. Morrison Water rates are determined on the basis of capital cost recovery. Waterworks services are included in this cost, and therefore are subsidized by South Australia residents. Because of this, it is easy for water rates to be excessive. In 2000, South Australia began assessing the feasibility of the municipalization of water rates and services. The aim of the study is to examine the potential return to the South Australian budget from the potential sale of the water distribution system. This paper will first review the history of water rates
