What's New In?

Just a double-click and the executable file starts downloading. The installation process is quite short, with just a few questions about the hostname and the port, and the process is over in a few seconds. After launching the application, double-click to open the terminal in which the commands will be executed. Zeta Telnet is a tool for getting connected to remote computers, for specific management of the machine, or just for carrying out brief operations. You can even use it as a password cracker to retrieve the login and password of a remote machine. In order for Zeta Telnet to manage networked hosts, it is necessary to first obtain the hostnames of the machines connected to the network. For this, it is necessary to use any router, access point or modem. That device must be configured to set up a static IP address. By default, the program is set up to obtain the hostname of the remote machine after being connected to the network, using a DNS or the Dynamic Host Configuration Protocol. Other options are available for obtaining the IP address of the remote computer. Zeta Telnet requires no installation, it is a portable application, which can be executed immediately when downloaded and just a double-click away. Instructions for use Download the Zeta Telnet portable executable file There is no other preliminary step required. Just click on the link and the executable file will start downloading. Unpack the compressed file on your computer When the download is complete, launch Zeta Telnet by double-clicking on it. Edit / Set connection information The application works only once being connected to a remote machine. For this, the user must configure the IP address, port, URL and login to the remote computer. In order to do that, double-click on the Options button to open the configuration window. When the connection is open, the application shows a list of the remote hosts that have connected to the network. On top of it, there is an option to change the settings for a specific host. Click on it to display the configuration window. On the Display tab, you can enter the hostname, IP address and port for the remote machine, and the URL. Also in this case, the window has two buttons for management: the Log button allows you to turn on a log of the execution, and the Strip Ansi button displays the text with ASCII codes
